Non-Exclusive Deposit License

In order for UBIR to reproduce, translate and distribute your submission worldwide, your agreement to the following terms is necessary. Please take a moment to read the terms of this license.

By clicking through this license, you (the author(s) or copyright owner(s)) grant to the University at Buffalo Libraries Institutional Repository the non-exclusive right to reproduce, translate (as defined below), and/or distribute your submission (including the abstract) worldwide in electronic format.

You agree that UBIR may translate the submission to any medium or format, known now or in the future, for the purpose of preservation.

You also agree that UBIR may keep more than one copy of this submission for purposes of security, back-up, and preservation.

You represent that the submission is your original work, and/or that you have the right to grant the rights contained in this license. You also represent that your submission does not, to the best of your knowledge, infringe upon anyone’s copyright.

If the submission contains material for which you do not hold copyright, you represent that you have obtained the unrestricted permission of the copyright owner to grant UBIR the rights required by this license, and that such third-party owned material is clearly identified and acknowledged within the text or content of the submission.

You agree that UBIR may make such changes to the item’s metadata as deemed necessary by UBIR staff to make the item more accessible.

Copyright

The UBIR recommends assigning a Creative Commons license to items deposited in the UBIR. Creative Commons provides alternative licenses whereby you can release some of the rights you are automatically assigned by copyright law.

The most open license is the Attribution license. With this you receive the greatest exposure for your work, since allows your work to be distributed anywhere or modified to someone’s specific needs, while still giving you credit for its creation.

Other Creative Commons license choices specify whether you allow commercial use of the work, whether you allow modifications of the work, and whether you allow derivative works to be created based on your work.

See http://creativecommons.org/ for more information, and to create a Creative Commons license.